

The Annual Ivan Barko Prize

ISFAR is delighted to announce that on Tuesday 7 April 2020 the 2019 Ivan Barko prize was awarded to Dr Angela Giovanangeli (University of Technology Sydney) for her recent article in The French Australian Review no. 67. Angela's article, 'Communal Luxury and the Universal Republic in the Designs and Pedagogy of Lucien Henry' can be downloaded for A$ 5.50 via the Journal menu on the ISFAR website.

<https://www.isfar.org.au/category/explorations/no-67/>

The annual ISFAR Ivan Barko Award is awarded by the ISFAR Committee on the recommendation of the editors of The French Australian Review to the author of the best article published during the preceding year. Named after Professor Ivan Barko to mark his long and distinguished service to ISFAR, particularly as editor of Explorations and its successor The French Australian Review, this prize is intended to stimulate research in all areas of French Australian relations.

Angela's article was based on a talk she gave at the Alliance Française in Sydney on 30 May 2019.